Non-Academic Experience

National

Director of Implementation and Support, also titled Software Architect, FNC, Inc. (1999 - 2003), Oxford, Mississippi. I was responsible for software and hardware systems design and development for the Banking/Real-estate industry. I was also responsible for FNC production systems including hardware and software. Groups under my direction include systems analyst, development systems administrators, production systems administrators and support operations.

For the last 1 1/2 years of employment at FNC, I was a Director in the company, but I still kept a hands on approach to technology management.

I over saw:

- * Application design and development
- * Production System trouble shooting and maintenance
- * Operation and maintenance of the production Web Farm using Microsoft's Internet Information Server using Microsoft's Network Load Balancing software
- * Serving as the database administrator for the production Microsoft SQL Server 2000 Enterprise in a clustered environment
- * Database administration for development Microsoft SQL Server 6.5, 7.0, 2000
- * Setup and operation of two production Storage Area Networks with over three terabytes of storage.
- * Software Tuning and performance tuning
- * Network analysis.

The first 2 years with FNC I directly managed the corporate networking and telecommunications as well as being a developer.

Telecommunications Analyst/Network Administrator, University of Mississippi, School of Business

Administration (1994 - 1999), University, Mississippi. Responsibilities included:

- * Conner and Holman building project teaching technology
- * Network design, design and implementation of distance learning facilities
- * Design and implementation of instructional technologies in classrooms
- * Certified operator and repair technician for the first Distance Learning classroom at the University of Mississippi using VTEL video conferencing equipment
- * Management of computer lab and classroom computers

Partner/Owner, Inland Empire Micro Systems (1989 - 1994), Unknown, Mississippi. Owned and operated Networking design and computer repair service specializing in Novel Netware networks.

As a small businessman, I did

- * Network design
- * Installations and repair of Ethernet based networks
- * Integrated Netware servers, applications and communications
- * Wrote and customized business applications for inventory tracking, maintenance schedule tracking, and help desk call tracking.
- * Trouble shooting on ArcNet networks
- * Installation and configuration of Novel Netware
- * Installation and configuration of network cards.
- * Hardware maintenance certified for Epson, Hewlett Packard and ACER computers
- * Hardware maintenance certified for Hewlett Packard plotters and printers

Staff Mechanical Engineer, EMSCO (1987 - 1989), Unknown, Unknown. I was responsible for doing structural stress analysis on tooling structure for design optimization. This would sometime require writing Fortran simulations that ran on a PC compatible. These simulations would include deflection prediction of component members.
